Behaviour Management Talk
Teaching Social Skills to Children with Autistic Spectrum Disorder -

Presented by
Dianna Yip, M.Ed., BCBA

This talk is designed for parents and educators with concerns about their children's social skills. In this talk, participants will learn about evidence-based strategies to teach social skills. Instead of focusing on theories, participants will learn practical strategies to teach social skills. The goal of this talk is for its participants to gain practical knowledge to support the social development of individual(s) with special learning needs.

Highlights:
- Provide participants with information of evidence-based strategies to teach social skills
- Provide participants with chances to practice some of these strategies during the talk
- Provide participants with information for both group and individual intervention strategies
  o The use of visual support
  o Social stories
  o Video modeling
- Provide participants with a list of useful resources

About the speaker
Dianna has been supporting children with Autism and other developmental disabilities since 2002. Over the past 10 years, she has served over 50 families with children with special needs and problem behaviours in Canada. After working with Dr. Gerald Kysela, clinical child psychologist, and Dr. Joe Lusyshyn, her advisor at the University of British Columbia (UBC) and receiving her Masters degree and BCBA, Dianna decided to relocate to Hong Kong to serve the community here.
